SOLDIERS OF RUSSIA EVACUATE LIAOYANG

BEAT A HURRIED RETREAT TO
THE NORTH BANK OF THE TAITSE RIVER.

NOW IN PERILOUS POSITION

KUROPATKIN'S ARMY MAY BE UT-TERLY DESTROYED BY JAPA-NESE FORCES.

GUNS AND PROVISIONS GONE

RUSSIANS HAVE PROBABLY LOST
ALL HEAVY ORDNANCE AND VALUABLE STORES.

Thursday's dispatches from the seat of war indicate that the position of the Russian army under General Kuropatkin
is perilous in the extreme. Following a fierce assault by the army of General
Oku at Liaoyang, the Russians hurriedly retreated from that city to the north bank of the Taitse river to meet the flanking and enveloping movement of General Kuroki.

A dispatch from Mukden indicates that Kuroki's troops have destroyed the railway north from Liaoyang and thus cut off Kuropatkin's retreat by rail to Mukden.

The roads to Mukden are said to have been rendered impassable by recent heavy rains, and with the railroad cut, General Kuropatkin's retreat seems utterly
out of the question by any route whatever.

Despite the assertions from St. Petersburg that the latest move of Kuropatkin is a wise one under the circumstances and rendered necessary by the advance of General Kuroki, the grim fact remains that he has abandoned the strongest position he has yet held and one that was prepared by months of hard work to resist just such an attack as the one made by the Japanese.

According to all reports 300 guns of heavy calibre were placed at Liaoyang and vast quantities of stores were accumulated to feed the troops there for months in case of siege. Most if not all of these guns probably were abandoned and the valuable stores destroyed or captured.

And now, with Nodzu's and Oku's armies forcing him from the rear, Kuropatkin
halts at bay before the flower of the Japanese army under the leadership of Kuroki, who is easily the best general in all Manchuria.

Russians Face a Crushing Defeat.

From the north, the dribble of Russian reinforcements offers no hope to the harrassed Kuropatkin, and it seems as if
with his heavy artillery gone, his army
dispirited by defeat and his provisions destroyed, that his force will be crushed between the victorious armies of the mikado.

There is a bare possibility that Kuropatkin
may drive back the forces of Kuroki, but such an eventuality seems almost
out of the question, for the other Japanese armies are too close to allow Kuropatkin to hurl all his troops against Kuroki and it now looks as though the greatest battle of the war will end in the utter annihilation of the Russian army under General Kuropatkin.

With the vast number of men and guns engaged and the desperate nature of the Japanese assaults and the stubborn Russian defense, the casualties in the fighting at Liaoyang must be enormous.
The bombardment is said to be without a parallel in the history of warfare, for fully 2,000 cannon thundered and roared for three days and shook the hills with their reverberations as they decimated the ranks of the opposing armies. So great was the concussion of exploding shells at Liaoyang many Russian officers were disabled by nervous prostration.

The Tokio correspondent of a London paper places the Russian losses at Liaoyang in the recent fighting at 15,000,
and that of the Japanese at 12,000.

The Japanese resumed the fighting
at dawn Friday, pressing the Russians toward the Taitse river. An army of 35,000 Japanese is bound north from Dalny to reinforce Oyama at Liaoyang, while a Russian report says 30,000 men
from Vladivostok are marching to Mukden.

Two forts near Tiger Tail, three quarters of a mile from Port Arthur,
have been taken by the Japanese and the attack on other positions is being vigorously pressed.

INTENSE EXCITEMENT

CREATED IN ST. PETERSBURG BY THE RUSSIAN RETREAT FROM LIAOYANG.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 2.—News of the evacuation of Liaoyang and the withdrawal of the Russian army to the right bank of the Taitse river reached

only a small portion of the people of St. Petersburg at a late hour and caused intense excitement and disappointment. Most of the inhabitants retired to rest believing that the Russian army had again been successful and that the Japanese attacks had been repelled. Ugly suspicions, however, have been rife during the day
owing to the absence of press telegrams from Liaoyang, leading to the belief that communication had been cut by General Kuroki.

The following statement was obtained from the war office at 10 o'clock
Thursday night:

"General Kuroki's army crossed in force to the right bank of the Taitse river and it therefore became necessary for the Russians to be in a position to repel a blow in this direction.
In view of this development in the operations, General Kuropatkin decided to abandon his position on the left bank and to concentrate his whole army on the other side of the river.
This position is the strongest both in character and in site. The great issue will be finally decided there. By withdrawing to this position the Russian army avoids the danger of being divided by the river and enjoys the advantage of compactness.

"General Kuropatkin's move, therefore, is not to be considered as a retreat, but rather as the carrying out of a well defined idea. The withdrawal of the Russians to the right bank involved the abandonment of Liaoyang, which is situated on the left bank. The Japanese took advantage of this to occupy the city, but the sternest
part of the fighting is still before them unless General Kuropatkin decides at the last hour to again fall back to the northward. It is more than likely,
however, that he will decide to fight to a finish. The cards are all in his favor, it is believed, now that he has the Japanese divided by the river, thus effectually turning the tables upon his foe.

"The determined pursuit by the Japanese of the Russian outposts which General Kuropatkin gave the first order to withdraw was probably due to their anxiety to keep the Russians south of Liaoyang until General Kuroki should be able to strike from the northeast. General Kuropatkin,
however, saw the trap and cleverly
avoided it."

It is believed the fighting on Sept.
1, exceeded in fierceness that of any previous day.

First Attempt Ended in Failure.

According to a dispatch from Liaoyang,
General Kuroki made his first attempt to cross the Taitse river late in the evening under cover of a heavy bombardment of the extreme Russian left. The Japanese artillery, which had been firing uninterruptedly for fourteen hours that day, ceased about 9 o'clock and then suddenly reopened about 11 o'clock to conceal Kuroki's
preparations for crossing the river.
These preparations required the establishment of a pontoon bridge, as the river was not fordable lower than Sakankwantun, and the pontoons would have to be floated down the stream.

The efforts of the Japanese to cross
the river on Aug. 30 were not successful, and General Kuroki therefore ordered a portion of his army to ford it at Sakankwantun, twenty miles from Liaoyang.

General Kuropatkin was unable to prevent the passage of the river, owing to the distance from Liaoyang, but for the same reason the Japanese were unable to bring the forces which forded the river and gained the right bank immediately into action.

Kuropatkin heard of the passage of the Taitse at Sakankwantun after 6 o'clock on the evening of Aug. 31,
and immediately gave orders for his men to fall back on the outer positions. This move is explained by the desire to collect a strong force with which to repel a flanking movement
from the northeast.

The Japanese repeated the attempt to throw pontoons across the Taitse
near Liaoyang during the night of Aug.
21, again under cover of a bombardment, and this attempt is believed to have been successful. Severe fighting may therefore be expected immediately northeast of Liaoyang.

The action of the Japanese commander in throwing a force across the river in the face of a strong enemy is regarded as extremely rash and the position of this force, separated from the main Japanese army by a deep river, may easily become desperate.

DEATH LIST IS LARGE

ABOUT TWENTY-SEVEN THOU-SAND MEN FALL IN BATTLE
AT LIAOYANG.

London, Sept. 2.—The Mail's Tokio correspondent confirms the report that General Kuropatkin has abandoned
Liaoyang and the Japanese armies have occupied the city and are pursuing the Russians. This came at the end of eight days of hard fighting, in which it is estimated, the Russians lost more than 15,000 in killed and wounded, while the combined Japanese armies lost more than 12,000.

Simultaneously with the crossing of the Taitse river by Kuroki and the turning of Kuropatkin's left flank, Field Marshal Oyama delivered a crushing attack upon the Russian center and left flank, piercing the former and crumpling the latter back on Kuropatkin's main position.

General Kuropatkin has 170,000 fighting men left after deducting his losses, with nearly 800 guns and a tremendous store of supplies, most of which must have been destroyed or abandoned in his hasty retreat.

BATTLE IS RENEWED

JAPS PRESS THE RUSSIANS TO-WARD THE TAITSE RIVER AT DAWN ON FRIDAY.

RUSSIAN ARMY IS ISOLATED

RAILROAD BETWEEN LIAOYANG
AND MUKDEN CUT AND ROADS ARE IMPASSABLE.

Tokio, Sept. 2.—The Japanese left began pressing the Russians toward the Taitse river at dawn Friday morning. The Japanese right is engaged in the neighborhood of Helyingtal.

The Japanese casualties since Aug.
29 are officially estimated at 10,000.

RAILROAD WRECKED

TRAIN SERVICE BETWEEN MUK-
DEN AND LIAOYANG IS SUS-PENDEd.

Mukden, Sept. 2.—The train service between Mukden and Liaoyang is interrupted. The roads are impassable.

REJOICING IN TOKIO.

Japs Jubilant Over the Victory at Liaoyang.

Tokio, Sept. 2.—The city of Tokio last night rang with shouts and cheers for the victory at Liaoyang. Lantern-bearing crowds swung through the streets and surged around the staff offices shouting "banzai."

The details of Thursday's fighting were scanty. It is only known that at dawn Thursday General Oku's army was hurled against the Russian right center on the southern line and that the Russians were forced to abandon their line and positions and retreat.

Their pursuit is now in progress.
The result of this pursuit and the result of the fierce battle waged on the eastern line, where General Kuroki is assailing the force which has long screened Liaoyang, together with the abandonment of the Russian right center on the southern line, exposes the Russian left. But here the Russian force is so heavy that it may possibly be able to protect and extricate itself.

The occupation of Liaoyang by the Japanese is in doubt. Official dispatches thus far received do not make mention of such occupation, but it is assumed that the Russians are withdrawing through Liaoyang and that the Japanese possibly occupied it late Thursday.

No estimates are obtainable of the losses on either side. Field Marshal Oyama describes his losses in the morning assault as heavy.

The early success of the attack was somewhat unexpected on account of the strength of the Russians and the nature of the Russian defenses. It is confidently believed that Field Marshal Oyama will press the pursuit with desperate vigor and inflict on General Kuropatkin the most crushing blow possible. It is believed that Oyama's trophies will prove valuable.
It is the opinion in Tokio that the Russians were not able to carry many guns with them and that they were forced to abandon or destroy vast quantities of stores.

BREAKS ALL WAR RECORDS.

Fighting at Liaoyang Exceeds That of Any Other Battle.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 2.—The fighting at Liaoyang has broken all records for the valor of the assailants and the stubbornness of the defenders. The whole history of warfare tells of no such bombardment, no such carnage
and no such persistency as are related
by press correspondents at Liaoyang.
Day after day the fight has been resumed at daybreak and kept up with hardly a moment's intermission until after nightfall. War-scarred veterans scarcely believe the stories which come from the seat of war and declare it is beyond human endurance for an army to fight for a whole week without respite, each day of which has exceeded its predecessor. Day after day the thousands of dead bestrewn the battlefield have to be removed. The wounded present a more serious problem, as they tax the transport facilities on both sides to the utmost.

The most difficult problem, however,
is the bringing up of supplies and ammunition. Never probably has such a bombardment been known.

RUSSIAN STEAMER SUNK.

Bumped Into a Mine in the Port Arthur Channel.

Tokio, Sept. 2.—A Russian steamer engaged in clearing the channel at Port Arthur struck a mine and was destroyed last Wednesday.

Killed by a Street Car.

St. Paul, Sept. 2.—Oscar Colrud of Rosholt, Wis., was run over by a westbound Seventh street car Thursday night at the corner of West Seventh and Exchange streets, and instantly killed shortly after 11 o'clock. He was cut in two by the wheels, and the car had to be lifted on a derrick before the body could be taken from under the hind trucks.

J. J. HILL ON THE STAND.

Testifies in Suit Involving Famous Northern Pacific Corner.

New York, Sept. 2.—James J. Hill, president of the Northern Securities company, testified during the day that on May 9, 1901, the day of the panic in Northern Pacific stock, he remained in his office and was busy considering the buying of new locomotives and other railroad affairs. When questioned as to the apportionment of Northern Pacific stock prior to the panic Mr. Hill said his personal holdings in Northern Pacific amounted to $7,000,000 and an additional $14,000,000
was held by friends of his. Mr.
Morgan's share, he said, was $20,000,000.
These holdings were of common stock. Mr. Hill was called to tell what he knew of the famous Northern Pacific corner in which John J. O'Leary of Chicago, who was short, claims that his brokers closed down on him at a much higher figure than should have been done, and in the suit, in which Mr. Hill, J. Pierpont Morgan and others have been called as witnesses, O'Leary seeks to recover $53,000 deposited with his brokers as margins.

WILL MANAGE CAMPAIGN.

Frank A. Day Chosen Head of Minnesota Democratic Committee.

St. Paul, Sept. 2.—Frank A. Day of Fairmont will be chairman of the Democratic state central committee
and will manage the Democratic state campaign.

Captain W. H. Harries of Caledonia,
chairman of the Minneapolis state Democratic convention, after a conference with John A. Johnson and the others on the state Democratic ticket,
announced the personnel of the executive committee, authorized by a motion made by L. A. Rosing of Cannon Falls, and unanimously carried in the convention. Five other men were chosen, only Hennepin county being left to select a member of the committee. The other five chosen are L.
A. Rosing, Cannon Falls; H. L. Buck,
Winona; William Gausewitz, Owatonna;
Daniel Aberle, St. Paul, and Bert Fesler, Duluth.

PRINCESS CANNOT BE FOUND.

She and the Austrian Officer Succeed
in Evading Pursuers.

Dresden, Sept. 2.—Up to the present
not the slightest trace has been found
of the refugee sought by Princess Louise,
who eloped with an Austrian army officer, and it would seem that the adventure had been brought to a successful conclusion. The police learn that the princess and her companion were first driven to Brambach, on the Bohemian boundary, and then the coachman was ordered to proceed to Hof,
where they arrived early Wednesday.
That the princess and her escorts took a train for Munich has been established, but nothing further is known.

Prince Philip of Saxe-Coburg, husband of the princess, apparently is not concerning himself with the departure of his wife and has not given any directions as to the future procedure.

W. GEORGE REILLY DEAD.

Man Who Shot the Queen of Zanzibar Passes Away.

Washington, Sept. 2.—W. George Reilly, who while consul to Zanzibar is said to have shot the queen of Zanzibar with salt and pepper because she persisted in bathing naked each afternoon in a fountain in front of the American consulate, died Thursday at a hospital of heart prostration. He was a character about Washington, fre-

Having been in Virginia, Reilly at various times held public offices there,
and was a judge of the Southern commission for Virginia. Twice he was United States consul to places in Venezuela and also at one time was consul to Zanzibar, to which offices he was appointed by Republican presidents.

APPEAL IS ALLOWED

ANOTHER MOVE IN THE NORTH-ERN SECURITIES CASE IN NEW JERSEY.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 2.—Judge Lan-ling, in the United States circuit court Thursday signed an order allowing an appeal from the decision of Judge Bradford in the Northern Securities company case. The appeal carries the case to the United States circuit court of appeals for the Third circuit. The assignments of errors question Judge Bradford's jurisdiction and charge that he erred in not dismissing the case and also in dismissing the preliminary injunction restraining the Securities company from disposing of the Northern Pacific stock received by the Securities company from Hariman and Pierce and from the Northern Pacific company.

FRESH TROOPS FOR OYAMA.

Thirty-five Thousand Men to Reinforce
Army at Liaoyang.

London, Sept. 2.—The Daily Mail
Kupant correspondent, telegraphing
under date of Aug. 31, says that 35,000
Japanese are en route from Dalny to Haicheng by railway. Originally they were intended to reinforce the besiegers of Port Arthur, but Field Marshal Oyama was satisfied that they were not required there and therefore sent them north.

A special dispatch from St. Petersburg, which is not confirmed from any other source, reports that General Nevitch from Vladivostok is within three days march of Mukden with 30,000 troops.

PECK FOR GOVERNOR

FORMER CHIEF EXECUTIVE OF
WISCONSIN IS NOMINATED
BY DEMOCRATS.

CONSERVATIVES IN CONTROL

DOMINATE PROCEEDINGS OF CON-VENTION AND FORMULATE
THE PLATFORM.

Oshkosh, Wis., Sept. 2.—Following is the Democratic state ticket:

Governor, George W. Peck, Milwaukee; lieutenant governor, Dr. H. A.
Lathrop, Marshfield; secretary of state, James P. Nolan, Manitowish;
attorney general, William F. Wolfe,
La Crosse; railroad commissioner,
Edward L. Hanton, Superior; insurance commissioner, Henry Fetzner, Sturgeon Bay; chairman state central committee, A. F. Warden, Waukesha.

Former Governor George W. Peck of Milwaukee was Thursday chosen as the standard bearer of the Democrats of Wisconsin, having received the nomination for governor by acclamation amid great enthusiasm. The platform upon which the nominees
will stand cordially approves the principles adopted by the national Democratic convention at St. Louis and endorses the nomination of Parker for president and Davis for vice president.
The platform favors the creation of a commission to regulate all public service corporations, favors a law compelling railway companies operating railroads in Wisconsin to sell mileage
books at a flat rate of 2 cents per mile.
The primary election law passed by the last legislature is strongly opposed and the present state administration is roundly scored. Two minority reports, one favoring the principle of primary election and the other declaring for an elective rate commission with power to control, were turned down, the vote by which the majority report passed being 404½ to 172½. The contest was carried on by

The Big Men of the Convention

and in the discussion bitter feeling and acrimony were manifested. On the one side, led by ex-Senator Vilas, were the conservative elements represented in the convention, calling for the adoption of the majority report of the committee on resolutions. What has been termed the radical element was lined up on the other side and conducted a fight that indicated a greater showing of strength than was demonstrated when the votes were counted.
During the debate upon the primary election planks, advocated by the two sides, the party division and dissension became apparent.

The overwhelming defeat of the radicals was a surprise to the conservatives, who looked for a greater showing of strength. That Senator Vilas contributed to this defeat by his effective speech is conceded. Then came the contest over the second minority report relating to the rate commission. The first defeat of the minority served to make it less aggressive and assertive and the convention soon got down to taking a vote. The adoption of the majority report and the ratification of the entire platform by the convention cleared the way for the nomination of the ticket.

With the nomination of George W.
Peck quickly disposed of, Dr. H. A.

SOLDIERS OF RUSSIA EVACUATE LIAOYANG

BEAT A HURRIED RETREAT TO THE NORTH BANK OF THE TAITSE RIVER.

NOW IN PERILOUS POSITION

KUROPATKIN'S ARMY MAY BE UT- TERLY DESTROYED BY JAPA- NESE FORCES.

GUNS AND PROVISIONS GONE

RUSSIANS HAVE PROBABLY LOST ALL HEAVY ORDNANCE AND VALUABLE STORES.

Thursday's dispatches from the seat of war indicate that the position of the Russian army under General Kuropatkin is perilous in the extreme. Following a fierce assault by the army of General Oku at Liaoyang, the Russians hurriedly retreated from that city to the north bank of the Taitse river to meet the flanking and enveloping movement of General Kuroki.

A dispatch from Mukden indicates that Kuroki's troops have destroyed the railway north from Liaoyang and thus cut off Kuropatkin's retreat by any route whatever.

The roads to Mukden are said to have been rendered impassable by recent heavy rains, and with the railroad cut, General Kuropatkin's retreat seems utterly out of the question by any route whatever.

Despite the assertions from St. Petersburg that the latest move of Kuropatkin is a wise one under the circumstances and rendered necessary by the advance of General Kuroki, the grim fact remains that he has abandoned the strongest position he has yet held and one that was prepared by months of hard work to resist just such an attack as the one made by the Japanese.

According to all reports 300 guns of heavy calibre were emplaced at Liaoyang and vast quantities of stores were accumulated to feed the troops there for months in case of siege. Most if not all of these guns probably were abandoned and the valuable stores destroyed or captured.

And now, with Nodza's and Oku's armies forcing him from the rear, Kuropatkin halts at bay before the flower of the Japanese army under the leadership of Kuroki, who is easily the best general in all Manchuria.

Russians Face a Crushing Defeat.

From the north, the dribble of Russian reinforcements offers no hope to the harassed Kuropatkin, and it seems as if with his heavy artillery gone, his army dispirited by defeat and his provisions destroyed, that his force will be crushed between the victorious armies of the mikado.

There is a bare possibility that Kuropatkin may drive back the forces of Kuroki, but such an eventuality seems almost out of the question, for the other Japanese armies are too close to allow Kuropatkin to hurl all his troops against Kuroki and it now looks as though the greatest battle of the war will end in the utter annihilation of the Russian army under General Kuropatkin.

With the vast number of men and guns engaged and the desperate nature of the Japanese assaults and the stubborn Russian defense, the casualties in the fighting at Liaoyang must be enormous. The bombardment is said to be without a parallel in the history of warfare, for fully 2,000 cannon thundered and roared for three days and shook the hills with their reverberations as they decimated the ranks of the opposing armies. So great was the concussion of exploding shells at Liaoyang many Russian officers were disabled by nervous prostration.

The Tokio correspondent of a London paper places the Russian losses at Liaoyang in the recent fighting at 15,000 and that of the Japanese at 12,000.

The Japanese resumed the fighting at dawn Friday, pressing the Russians toward the Taitse river.

An army of 35,000 Japanese is bound north from Dalny to reinforce Oyama at Liaoyang, while a Russian report says 30,000 men from Vladivostok are marching to Mukden.

Two forts near Tiger Tail, three-quarters of a mile from Port Arthur, have been taken by the Japanese and the attack on other positions is being vigorously pressed.

CREATED IN ST. PETERSBURG BY THE RUSSIAN RETREAT FROM LIAOYANG.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 2.—News of the evacuation of Liaoyang and the withdrawal of the Russian army to the right bank of the Taitse river reached only a small portion of the people of St. Petersburg at a late hour and caused intense excitement and disappointment. Most of the inhabitants retired to rest believing that the Russian army had again been successful and that the Japanese attacks had been repelled. Ugly suspicions, however, have been rife during the day owing to the absence of press telegrams from Liaoyang, leading to the belief that communication had been cut by General Kuroki.

The following statement was obtained from the war office at 10 o'clock Thursday night:

"General Kuroki's army crossed in force to the right bank of the Taitse river and it therefore became necessary for the Russians to be in a position to repel a blow in this direction. In view of this development in the operations, General Kuropatkin decided to abandon his position on the left bank and to concentrate his whole army on the other side of the river. This position is the strongest both in character and in site. The great issue will be finally decided there. By withdrawing to this position the Russian army avoids the danger of being divided by the river and enjoys the advantage of compactness.

"General Kuropatkin's move, therefore, is not to be considered as a retreat, but rather as the carrying out of a well defined idea. The withdrawal of the Russians to the right bank involved the abandonment of Liaoyang, which is situated on the left bank. The Japanese took advantage of this to occupy the city, but the sternest part of the fighting is still before them unless General Kuropatkin decides at the last hour to again fall back to the northward. It is more than likely, however, that he will decide to fight to a finish. The cards are all in his favor, it is believed, now that he has the Japanese divided by the river, thus effectually turning the tables upon his foe.

"The determined pursuit by the Japanese of the Russian outposts which General Kuropatkin gave the first order to withdraw was probably due to their anxiety to keep the Russians south of Liaoyang until General Kuroki should be able to strike from the northeast. General Kuropatkin, however, saw the trap and cleverly avoided it."

It is believed the fighting on Sept. 1, exceeded in fierceness that of any previous day.

First Attempt Ended in Failure.

According to a dispatch from Liaoyang, General Kuroki made his first attempt to cross the Taitse river late in the evening under cover of a heavy bombardment of the extreme Russian left. The Japanese artillery, which had been firing uninterruptedly for fourteen hours that day, ceased about 9 o'clock and then suddenly reopened about 11 o'clock to conceal Kuroki's preparations for crossing the river. These preparations required the establishment of a pontoon bridge, as the river was not fordable lower than Sakankwantun, and the pontoons would have to be floated down the stream.

The efforts of the Japanese to cross the river on Aug. 30 were not successful, and General Kuroki therefore ordered a portion of his army to ford it at Sakankwantun, twenty miles from Liaoyang.

General Kuropatkin was unable to prevent the passage of the river, owing to the distance from Liaoyang, but for the same reason the Japanese were unable to bring the forces which forded the river and gained the right bank immediately into action.

Kuropatkin heard of the passage of the Taitse at Sakankwantun after 6 o'clock on the evening of Aug. 31, and immediately gave orders for his men to fall back on the outer positions. This move is explained by the desire to collect a strong force with which to repel a flanking movement from the northeast.

The Japanese repeated the attempt to throw pontoons across the Taitse near Liaoyang during the night of Aug. 21, again under cover of a bombardment, and this attempt is believed to have been successful. Severe fighting may therefore be expected immediately northeast of Liaoyang.

The action of the Japanese commander in throwing a force across the river in the face of a strong enemy is regarded as extremely rash and the position of this force, separated from the main Japanese army by a deep river, may easily become desperate.

DEATH LIST IS LARGE

ABOUT TWENTY-SEVEN THOU- SAND MEN FALL IN BATTLE AT LIAOYANG.

London, Sept. 2.—The Mail's Tokio correspondent confirms the report that General Kuropatkin has abandoned Liaoyang and the Japanese armies have occupied the city and are pursuing the Russians. This came at the end of eight days of hard fighting, in which it is estimated, the Russians lost more than 15,000 in killed and wounded, while the combined Japanese armies lost more than 12,000.

Simultaneously with the crossing of the Taitse river by Kuroki and the turning of Kuropatkin's left flank, Field Marshal Oyama delivered a crushing attack upon the Russian center and left flank, piercing the former and crumpling the latter back on Kuropatkin's main position.

General Kuropatkin has 170,000 fighting men left after deducting his losses, with nearly 800 guns and a tremendous store of supplies, most of which must have been destroyed or abandoned in his hasty retreat.

BATTLE IS RENEWED

JAPS PRESS THE RUSSIANS TO- WARD THE TAITSE RIVER AT DAWN ON FRIDAY.

RUSSIAN ARMY IS ISOLATED

RAILROAD BETWEEN LIAOYANG AND MUKDEN CUT AND ROADS ARE IMPASSABLE.

Tokio, Sept. 2.—The Japanese left began pressing the Russians toward the Taitse river at dawn Friday morning. The Japanese right is engaged in the neighborhood of Helyingtai.

The Japanese casualties since Aug. 23 are officially estimated at 10,000.

RAILROAD WRECKED

TRAIN SERVICE BETWEEN MUK- DEN AND LIAOYANG IS SUS- PENDED.

Mukden, Sept. 2.—The train service between Mukden and Liaoyang is interrupted. The roads are impassable.

REJOICING IN TOKIO.

Japs Jubilant Over the Victory at Liaoyang.

Tokio, Sept. 2.—The city of Tokio last night rang with shouts and cheers for the victory at Liaoyang. Lantern-bearing crowds swung through the streets and surged around the staff offices shouting "banzai."

The details of Thursday's fighting were scanty. It is only known that at dawn Thursday General Oku's army was hurled against the Russian right center on the southern line and that the Russians were forced to abandon their line and positions and retreat.

Their pursuit is now in progress. The result of this pursuit and the result of the fierce battle waged on the eastern line, where General Kuroki is assailing the force which has long screened Liaoyang, together with the abandonment of the Russian right center on the southern line, exposes the Russian left. But here the Russian force is so heavy that it may possibly be able to protect and extricate itself.

The occupation of Liaoyang by the Japanese is in doubt. Official dispatches thus far received do not make mention of such occupation, but it is assumed that the Russians are withdrawing through Liaoyang and that the Japanese possibly occupied it late Thursday.

No estimates are obtainable of the losses on either side. Field Marshal Oyama describes his losses in the morning assault as heavy.

The early success of the attack was somewhat unexpected on account of the strength of the Russians and the nature of the Russian defenses. It is confidently believed that Field Marshal Oyama will press the pursuit with desperate vigor and inflict on General Kuropatkin the most crushing blow possible. It is believed that Oyama's trophies will prove valuable. It is the opinion in Tokio that the Russians were not able to carry many guns with them and that they were forced to abandon or destroy vast quantities of stores.

BREAKS ALL WAR RECORDS.

Fighting at Liaoyang Exceeds That of Any Other Battle.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 2.—The fighting at Liaoyang has broken all records for the valor of the assailants and the stubbornness of the defenders. The whole history of warfare tells of no such bombardment, no such carnage and no such persistency as are related by press correspondents at Liaoyang. Day after day the fight has been resumed at daybreak and kept up with hardly a moment's intermission until after nightfall. War-scarred veterans scarcely believe the stories which come from the seat of war and declare it is beyond human endurance for an army to fight for a whole week without respite, each day of which has exceeded its predecessor. Day after day the thousands of dead bestrewn the battlefield have to be removed. The Japanese have invented new methods to incinerate the heaps of dead. The wounded present a more serious problem, as they tax the transport facilities on both sides to the utmost.

The most difficult problem, however, is the bringing up of supplies and ammunition. Never probably has such a bombardment been known.

RUSSIAN STEAMER SUNK.

Bumped Into a Mine in the Port Ar- thur Channel.

Tokio, Sept. 2.—A Russian steamer engaged in clearing the channel at Port Arthur struck a mine and was destroyed last Wednesday.

Killed by a Street Car.

St. Paul, Sept. 2.—Oscar Colrud of Roshol, Wis., was run over by a west-bound Seventh street car Thursday night at the corner of West Seventh and Exchange streets, and instantly killed shortly after 11 o'clock. He was cut in two by the wheels, and the car had to be lifted on a dolly before the body could be taken from under the hind trucks.

Testifies in Suit Involving Famous Northern Pacific Corner.

New York, Sept. 2.—James J. Hill, president of the Northern Securities company, testified during the day that on May 9, 1901, the day of the panic in Northern Pacific stock, he remained in his office and was busy considering the buying of new locomotives and other railroad affairs. When questioned as to the apportionment of Northern Pacific stock prior to the panic Mr. Hill said his personal holdings in Northern Pacific amounted to $7,000,000 and an additional $14,000,000 was held by friends of his. Mr. Morgan's share, he said, was $20,000,000. These holdings were of common stock. Mr. Hill was called to tell what he knew of the famous Northern Pacific corner in which John J. O'Leary of Chicago, who was short, claims that his brokers closed down on him at a much higher figure than should have been done, and in the suit, in which Mr. Hill, J. Pierpont Morgan and others have been called as witnesses, O'Leary seeks to recover $53,000 deposited with his brokers as margins.

WILL MANAGE CAMPAIGN.

Frank A. Day Chosen Head of Minne- sota Democratic Committee.

St. Paul, Sept. 2.—Frank A. Day of Fairmont will be chairman of the Democratic state central committee and will manage the Democratic state campaign.

Captain W. H. Harries of Caledonia, chairman of the Minneapolis state Democratic convention, after a conference with John A. Johnson and the others on the state Democratic ticket, announced the personnel of the executive committee, authorized by a motion made by L. A. Rosing of Cannon Falls, and unanimously carried in the convention. Five other men were chosen, only Hennepin county being left to select a member of the committee. The other five chosen are L. A. Rosing, Cannon Falls; H. L. Buck, Winona; William Gausewitz, Owatonna; Daniel Aberle, St. Paul, and Bert Fesler, Duluth.

PRINCESS CANNOT BE FOUND.

She and the Austrian Officer Succeed in Evading Pursuers.

Dresden, Sept. 2.—Up to the present not the slightest trace has been found of the refugee sought by Princess Louise, who eloped with an Austrian army officer, and it would seem that the adventure had been brought to a successful conclusion. The police learn that the princess and her companion were first driven to Brambach, on the Bohemian boundary, and then the coachman was ordered to proceed to Hof, where they arrived early Wednesday. That the princess and her escorts took a train for Munich has been established, but nothing further is known.

Prince Philip of Saxe-Coburg, husband of the princess, apparently is not concerning himself with the departure of his wife and has not given any directions as to the future procedure.

W. GEORGE REILLY DEAD.

Man Who Shot the Queen of Zanzibar Passes Away.

Washington, Sept. 2.—W. George Reilly, who while consul to Zanzibar is said to have shot the queen of Zanzibar with salt and pepper because she persisted in bathing naked each afternoon in a fountain in front of the American consulate, died Thursday at a hospital of heart prostration. He was a character about Washington, frequenting newspaper row.

Reilly, from Virginia, Reilly at various times held public offices there, and was a judge of the Southern commission for Virginia. Twice he was United States consul to places in Venezuela and also at one time was consul to Zanzibar, to which offices he was appointed by Republican presidents.

ANOTHER MOVE IN THE NORTH- ERN SECURITIES CASE IN NEW JERSEY.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 2.—Judge Lansing, in the United States circuit court Thursday signed an order allowing an appeal from the decision of Judge Bradford in the Northern Securities company case. The appeal carries the case to the United States circuit court of appeals for the Third circuit. The assignments of errors question Judge Bradford's jurisdiction and charge that he erred in not dismissing the case and also in dismissing the preliminary injunction restraining the Securities company from disposing of the Northern Pacific stock received by the Securities company from Harriman and Pierce and from the Northern Pacific company.

FRESH TROOPS FOR OYAMA.

Thirty-five Thousand Men to Reinforce Army at Liaoyang.

London, Sept. 2.—The Daily Mail Kupanzt correspondent, telegraphing under date of Aug. 31, says that 35,000 Japanese are en route from Dalny to Haicheng by railway. Originally they were intended to reinforce the besiegers of Port Arthur, but Field Marshal Oyama was satisfied that they were not required there and therefore sent them north.

A special dispatch from St. Petersburg, which is not confirmed from any other source, reports that General Dinevitch from Vladivostok is within three days march of Mukden with 30,000 troops.

PECK FOR GOVERNOR

FORMER CHIEF EXECUTIVE OF WISCONSIN IS NOMINATED BY DEMOCRATS.

CONSERVATIVES IN CONTROL

DOMINATE PROCEEDINGS OF CON- VENTION AND FORMULATE THE PLATFORM.

Oshkosh, Wis., Sept. 2.—Following is the Democratic state ticket:

Governor, George W. Peck, Milwaukee; lieutenant governor, Dr. H. A. Lathrop, Marshfield; secretary of state, James P. Nolan, Manitowoc; attorney general, William F. Wolfe, La Crosse; railroad commissioner, Edward L. Hanton, Superior; insurance commissioner, Henry Fetzner, Sturgeon Bay; chairman state central committee, A. F. Warden, Waukesha.

Former Governor George W. Peck of Milwaukee was Thursday chosen as the standard bearer of the Democrats of Wisconsin, having received the nomination for governor by acclamation amid great enthusiasm. The platform upon which the nominees will stand cordially approves the principles adopted by the national Democratic convention at St. Louis and endorses the nomination of Parker for president and Davis for vice president. The platform favors the creation of a commission to regulate all public service corporations, favors a law compelling railway companies operating railroads in Wisconsin to sell mileage books at a flat rate of 2 cents per mile. The primary election law passed by the last legislature is strongly opposed and the present state administration is roundly scored. Two minority reports, one favoring the principle of primary election and the other declaring for an elective rate commission with power to control, were turned down, the vote by which the majority report passed being 404½ to 172½. The contest was carried on by and in the discussion bitter feeling and acrimony were manifested. On the one side, led by ex-Senator Vilas, were the conservative elements represented in the convention, calling for the adoption of the majority report of the committee on resolutions. What has been termed the radical element was lined up on the other side and conducted a fight that indicated a greater showing of strength than was demonstrated when the votes were counted. During the debate upon the primary election planks, advocated by the two sides, the party division and dissension became apparent.

The overwhelming defeat of the radicals was a surprise to the conservatives, who looked for a greater showing of strength. That Senator Vilas contributed to this defeat by his effective speech is conceded. Then came the contest over the second minority report relating to the rate commission. The first defeat of the minority served to make it less aggressive and assertive and the convention soon got down to taking a vote. The adoption of the majority report and the ratification of the entire platform by the convention cleared the way for the nomination of the ticket.

With the nomination of George W. Peck quickly disposed of, Dr. H. A. Lathrop of Marshfield was chosen for the second place on the ticket, having defeated Burt Williams of Ashland by a vote of 322 to 328. The rest of the ticket was nominated as above.

In a hot contest for state chairman, A. F. Warden of Waukesha won out over J. E. Jones of Portage by a vote of 277 to 200½. The convention at 11:30 adjourned.

RADICAL LIQUOR CURE.

In Persia the Drunkard's Ears Are Nailed to the Sidewalk.

"There is only one custom in our country which I would like to see established in America, and that is the custom of dealing with drunkards," said a Persian. "In our country when a man gets drunk we take him and nail him to the sidewalk, driving the spikes through his ears. Then when other people come along they spit in his face and kick him until he is sober. I think this method would do a great deal of good in America, because you have more drunkenness than we do. There are no saloons in Persia, the chief beverage being homemade wine. They don't even know what beer is.

"Our officials have several ways of making prisoners confess to crimes," said the Persian. "The favorite method is to take them on a stand around which all the people of the town gather and then put out one eye. If the crime is not very great an arm is cut off or a leg severed. If it is only a trivial offense probably an ear is sacrificed. Very often innocent people are subjected to these torments, but it cannot be helped.

"The Persians very seldom hang a man for crime. If he kills another he is fined $15 and allowed to go. If he kills ten or a dozen and the people finally decide that he ought to be put out of the way he is hanged. But he is not hanged as they hang men in this country. He is hanged by the feet and a heavy weight is tied to his head. Then he is allowed to die. If the accused prisoner is a woman her hair is shorn from her head, provided the offense is a trivial one. If it is a serious one she may be turned into a room filled with mad cats and be scratched to death.

"Persian jails are dark cellars and contain no furniture whatever. The government doesn't feed prisoners, this being left to friends of the accused. If he happens to have no friends he will starve to death. Oftentimes when food is brought by friends the keepers of the prison and the other officials appropriate it, so the prisoners have to go hungry."—Sioux City Journal.

Will Courtmartial Ouktomsky.

Paris, Sept. 2.—The correspondent at St. Petersburg of the Echo de Paris says that at a council of admirals it was decided that Rear Admiral Prince Ouktomsky be courtmartialled for having disobeyed the order not to return to Port Arthur.

A BRAUNY EVANGELIST.

He First Whipped a Bully and Then Brought Him to Church.

A Methodist minister tells the following story about the late Sam Rozel, the great Virginia evangelist, who in his day was one of the best known pulpits orators in the south:

"Sam Rozel was a very big man and had a wide reputation for physical strength. In his college days he came off the field of combat, usually a circumscribed and secluded area of the campus, wearing the laurel of victory on many occasions, and after he became a preacher stories of his physical prowess were spread far and near.

"One day he went to a village to hold a protracted meeting. The village blacksmith, who was a very big man, and who was recognized, especially among the tavern habitués, as a pugilistic wonder, heard about the coming of Rozel, and the villagers did not fail to tell him all they had heard about the size of the parson's arm and the length of his legs, and of the convincing way he had of closing an argument with his fists.

"All this nettled the smith considerably, so when Rozel reached the town he sought him out and asked him to fight.

"Rozel, of course, said he did not want to fight, but the smith kept on insisting, and finally Rozel became angry and agreed to gratify the fellow.

"They fought. Rozel literally wiped up the ground with the big man. When he had pounded him until the poor, vanquished bully was gasping hard, Rozel picked him up and threw him over a fence.

"The blacksmith had not said a word since the affray began up to this point. As he rolled over on the other side of the fence, however, he called out:

"Say, parson, kindly throw my horse over too. I'm going away."

"But Rozel followed the man to his home, and had him sitting on a front bench at the meeting that same night singing louder than any one else."—Baltimore Sun.

A Valuable Scrapbook.

To devote a scrapbook to one subject makes it much more interesting and valuable, and when you begin to gather material on any one theme you will be surprised at the amount which will come to hand. Suppose you want to know all about some famous person, either in the public eye at present or some one of past times. From magazines and other sources can be collected articles, portraits, perhaps poems in relation to the subject, etc. When matter is clipped, the scrapbook maker may copy it neatly with a pen into a book. The educational value of such a book is something worth while, as well as the satisfaction of having gathered oneself so much information on a single subject.

Artemus Ward's Protector.

While in the show business in Pennsylvania Artemus Ward was put to sleep in an attic where the sash had been taken out for ventilation. In the night it turned cold. Artemus got up and was busy at the window. "What are you doing, Artemus?" his companion asked. "I'm so e-cold," he chattered. "I was hanging up some of these hoop-skirts. I thought they'd keep the coldest of the cold out."

Hunters' Experience Some Pretty Bad Weather For the First Days Shooting--Some Good Bags Though

The hunters from Brainerd who went out yesterday and day before are drifting back one by one. They have experienced some very rough weather yesterday and today and the shooting has not been what it might have been. Withal several parties brought in good bags and there is reason to believe that had the weather been better the crop would have been much larger. The party composed of Messrs Larabee, Spalding, Cook, Crowell, Murphy, O'Brien and Finn got back last night and had close to fifty birds.

Messrs King, Carey and Miller came in from Pillager this afternoon and they had about all that R. D. could lug in one load. They got about fifty.

Others who went out report small numbers, one party bringing in six while others report all the way from five to ten.

RAW FISH AND WASABI.

An Appetizing Dish That Is a Favorite in Japan.

Not so well known among the occidentals as soy sauce, but of equal merit as an appetizer, is wasabi. Its use is universal in Japan. It serves the same purpose that horseradish does on occidental tables, but is less acid.

My own introduction to wasabi was unique. I count among my most pleasing experiences in this sunrise land my meeting with Tumbio Yano, novelist and diplomat. And not the least item in my debt of gratitude to him is that he taught me to appreciate my raw fish and wasabi. Mr. Yano has been the mikado's ambassador to China and other lands. One night at the Nippon club he led up to a delicate subject on the menu with much diplomacy. He finally got my assent to the statement that a cosmopolitan appetite is one of the distinguishing marks of cultivated travel. Then he passed me raw fish!

I confessed that I was willing to be a stick in the mud or any other variety of slurrian rather than take place with the international elect by eating such a dish. My host, however, was painfully insistent, finally adding that with raw fish they, of course, ate wasabi. Now, I did not have even a vague notion of what this might be, but with that raw proposition before me it was comforting to know that at least it was to be diluted with something. I conjured up an experience in taking castor oil ambushed under sherry and sarsaparilla, which, while not a beverage one would grow to crave, might have been worse. I figured out also that with my gaucheries with chopsticks I might manage without exciting suspicion to drop the fish before the fatal moment, and eat only the mysterious wasabi. But whether through cowardice or courage I cannot say, fish and relish made quick and simultaneous journey to my reluctant palate, and in the never to be forgotten instant there flashed into my consciousness the undeniable truth that in all my occidental years I had been denied one of the most savory dishes in the world. Charles Lamb's Chinaman had jubilent delight over his first taste of roast pig, but that is a degraded passion compared with an Anglo-Saxon's initial ecstasy over an oriental morsel of raw namdsu garnished with the appetizing roots of Eutrema wasabi. All honor to triumphant agricultural Japan, and may this far eastern member of the mustard family take deep root and spread and flourish in my native land!—Harold Boice in Booklovers' Magazine.

Field Arrived.

After Eugene Field's return from his first trip to Europe, where he "spent his patrimony like a prince," and before he went to Denver, he had a little close personal experience with hard times. One day he walked into a leading St. Louis hotel and, squaring himself before the register, inscribed his name in his well known copperplate chirography. The clerk had never heard of him, but he read the name with a quick glance and said:

"Do you wish a room, Mr. Field?"

"No," was the answer.

"Dinner?"

"No."

"Then may I ask what you do want?" continued the clerk.

"I just wanted to arrive," replied Field solemnly. "I had not arrived at a good hotel for many months. I feel better. Thank you," and he stalked out with long, heavy strides.

RADICAL LIQUOR CURE.

In Persia the Drunkard's Ears Are Nailed to the Sidewalk.

"There is only one custom in our country which I would like to see established in America, and that is the custom of dealing with drunkards," said a Persian. "In our country when a man gets drunk we take him and nail him to the sidewalk, driving the spikes through his ears. Then when other people come along they spit in his face and kick him until he is sober. I think this method would do a great deal of good in America, because you have more drunkenness than we do. There are no saloons in Persia, the chief beverage being homemade wine. They don't even know what beer is."

"Our officials have several ways of making prisoners confess to crimes," said the Persian. "The favorite method is to take them on a stand around which all the people of the town gather and then put out one eye. If the crime is not very great an arm is cut off or a leg severed. If it is only a trivial offense probably an ear is sacrificed. Very often innocent people are subjected to these tortures, but it cannot be helped."

"The Persians very seldom hang a man for crime. If he kills another he is fined $15 and allowed to go. If he kills ten or a dozen and the people finally decide that he ought to be put out of the way he is hanged. But he is not hanged as they hang men in this country. He is hanged by the feet and a heavy weight is tied to his head. Then he is allowed to die. If the accused prisoner is a woman her hair is shorn from her head, provided the offense is a trivial one. If it is a serious one she may be turned into a room filled with mad cats and be scratched to death."

"Persian jails are dark cellars and contain no furniture whatever. The government doesn't feed prisoners, this being left to friends of the accused. If he happens to have no friends he will starve to death. Oftentimes when food is brought by friends the keepers of the prison and the other officials appropriate it, so the prisoners have to go hungry."—Sioux City Journal.

Paris, Sept. 2.—The correspondent at St. Petersburg of the Echo de Paris says that at a council of admirals it was decided that Rear Admiral Prince Ouktomsky be courtmartialed for having disobeyed the order not to return to Port Arthur.

A BRAWNY EVANGELIST.

He First Whipped a Bully and Then Brought Him to Church.

A Methodist minister tells the following story about the late Sam Rozel, the great Virginia evangelist, who in his day was one of the best known pulpits orators in the south:

"Sam Rozel was a very big man and had a wide reputation for physical strength. In his college days he came off the field of combat, usually a circumscribed and secluded area of the campus, wearing the laurel of victory on many occasions, and after he became a preacher stories of his physical prowess were spread far and near."

"One day he went to a village to hold a protracted meeting. The village blacksmith, who was a very big man, and who was recognized, especially among the tavern habitués, as a pugilistic wonder, heard about the coming of Rozel, and the villagers did not fail to tell him all they had heard about the size of the parson's arm and the length of his legs, and of the convincing way he had of closing an argument with his fists."

"All this nettled the smith considerably, so when Rozel reached the town he sought him out and asked him to fight."

"Rozel, of course, said he did not want to fight, but the smith kept on insisting, and finally Rozel became angry and agreed to gratify the fellow."

"They fought. Rozel literally wiped up the ground with the big man. When he had pounded him until the poor, vanquished bully was gasping hard, Rozel picked him up and threw him over a fence."

"The blacksmith had not said a word since the affray began up to this point. As he rolled over on the other side of the fence, however, he called out:

"Say, parson, I'm going away."

"But Rozel followed the man to his home, and had him sitting on a front bench at the meeting that same night singing louder than any one else."—Baltimore Sun.

A Valuable Scrapbook.

To devote a scrapbook to one subject makes it much more interesting and valuable, and when you begin to gather material on any one theme you will be surprised at the amount which will come to hand. Suppose you want to know all about some famous person, either in the public eye at present or some one of past times. From magazines and other sources can be collected articles, portraits, perhaps poems in relation to the subject, etc. When matter is clipped, the scrapbook maker may copy it neatly with a pen into a book. The educational value of such a book is something worth while, as well as the satisfaction of having gathered oneself so much information on a single subject.

Artemus Ward's Protector.

While in the show business in Pennsylvania Artemus Ward was put to sleep in an attic where the sash had been taken out for ventilation. In the night it turned cold. Artemus got up and was busy at the window. "What are you doing, Artemus?" his companion asked. "I'm so c-c-cold," he chattered. "I was hanging up some of these hoop-skirts. I thought they'd keep the coldest of the cold out."

ARDOR IS DAMPENED

Hunters' Experience Some Pretty Bad Weather For the First Days Shooting—Some Good Bags Though

The hunters from Brainerd who went out yesterday and day before are drifting back one by one. They have experienced some very rough weather yesterday and today and the shooting has not been what it might have been. Withal several parties brought in good bags and there is reason to believe that had the weather been better the crop would have been much larger. The party composed of Messrs Larabee, Spalding, Cook, Crowell, Murphy, O'Brien and Finn got back last night and had close to fifty birds.

Messrs King, Carey and Miller came in from Pillager this afternoon and they had about all that R. D. could lug in one load. They got about fifty.

Others who went out report small numbers, one party bringing in six while others report all the way from five to ten.

RAW FISH AND WASABI.

An Appetizing Dish That is a Favorite in Japan.

Not so well known among the occidentals as soy sauce, but of equal merit as an appetizer, is wasabi. Its use is universal in Japan. It serves the same purpose that horseradish does on occidental tables, but is less acrid.

My own introduction to wasabi was unique. I count among my most pleasing experiences in this sunrise land my meeting with Tumbio Yano, novelist and diplomat. And not the least item in my debt of gratitude to him is that he taught me to appreciate my raw fish and wasabi. Mr. Yano has been the mikado's ambassador to China and other lands. One night at the Nippon club he led up to a delicate subject on the menu with much diplomacy. He finally got my assent to the statement that a cosmopolitan appetite is one of the distinguishing marks of cultivated travel. Then he passed me raw fish!

I confessed that I was willing to be a stick in the mud or any other variety of slurlian rather than take place with the international elect by eating such a dish. My host, however, was painfully insistent, finally adding that with raw fish they, of course, ate wasabi. Now, I did not have even a vague notion of what this might be, but with that raw proposition before me it was comforting to know that at least it was to be diluted with something. I conjured up an experience in taking castor oil ambushed under sherry and sarsaparilla, which, while not a beverage one would grow to crave, might have been worse. I figured out also that with my gaucheries with chopsticks I might manage without exciting suspicion to drop the fish before the fatal moment, and eat only the mysterious wasabi. But whether through cowardice or courage I cannot say, fish and relish made quick and simultaneous journey to my reluctant palate, and in the never to be forgotten instant there flashed into my consciousness the undeniable truth that in all my occidental years I had been denied one of the most savory dishes in the world. Charles Lamb's Chinaman had jubilant delight over his first taste of roast pig, but that is a degraded passion compared with an Anglo-Saxon's initial ecstasy over an oriental morsel of raw namdsu garnished with the appetizing roots of Eutrema wasabi. All honor to triumphant agricultural Japan, and may this far eastern member of the mustard family take deep root and spread and flourish in my native land!—Harold Boice in Booklovers' Magazine.

Field Arrived.

After Eugene Field's return from his first trip to Europe, where he "spent his patrimony like a prince," and before he went to Denver, he had a little close personal experience with hard times. One day he walked into a lending St. Louis hotel and, squaring himself before the register, inscribed his name in his well known copperplate chirography. The clerk had never heard of him, but he read the name with a quick glance and said:

"Do you wish a room, Mr. Field?"

"No," was the answer.

"Dinner?"

"No."

"Then may I ask what you do want?" continued the clerk.

"I just wanted to arrive," replied Field solemnly. "I had not arrived at a good hotel for many months. I feel better. Thank you," and he stalked out with long, heavy strides.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"MY FRIEND FROM INDIA."

The rollicking farce comedy, "My Friend From India," will be the attraction at the Brainerd opera house next Monday night. The play speaks for itself. It is time tested and there is not a single moment during the action of the play when it can be said that it lags. It is a wonderfully well connected and the witty sayings and funny situations follow each other so rapidly that it keeps the house in an uproar from the rise of the curtain to the close. The piece will be presented in Brainerd by a company of metropolitan players most of whom have already, at one time or another, appeared in the cast of the play. The company is in every way capable and the performance on Monday night should be an excellent one.

BASE BALL NUBS

Speaking of the Duluth Fashions which are to play Brainerd next Sunday and Monday in this city at Athletic park the Duluth News-Tribune says:

"In the contest for the championship of the Big Duluth Fashions defeated the Big Duluth team at the Athletic park yesterday afternoon, by a score of 11 to 3. During the greater part of the game the latter aggregation put up a strong bid for honors, but in the seventh their stock became bearish, followed by a disastrous slump in the eighth.

"McDougal, the young man from West Duluth, who at one time did some nice work for the White Sox juniors, pitched for the Big Duluth bunch. He was strong in the striking out act, and began to dole out his good ones with discriminate judgment. But in the fatal eighth the batters pounded his offerings all over the field. Three doubles and a single were secured off his delivery in quick succession. This would not have been so bad if McDougal's team-mates did not have a streak of throwing wild while the batting exhibition was on.

"Al. Cummings, yachtman, football player, and otherwise an all-round athlete, who occupied the box for the Fashions, pitched a steady game. He gave hits sparingly, the eighth inning being the only period in which the batters succeeded in bunting them. On account of his occasional wildness he got into a couple of tight places, but his partners accorded him gilt-edged support at the proper time.

"The game was an excellent exhibition and compared favorably with many of the league contests seen here this season. There was some clever fielding done. Catcher Potter got under a difficult foul fly near the wire netting which brought to mind some of the accomplishments of Daniel O'Leary. And Honnold made a running catch in the second inning that was of the sensational type."

MUST BELIEVE IT

When Well Known Brainerd People Tell it so Plainly.

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Brainerd the proof is positive. Every backache sufferer, every man woman or child with any kidney trouble will find profit in the reading.

Mrs. M. G. Blake, of West Brainerd, says: "I suffered a great deal from inflammation of the kidneys and I grew worse in place of better. My back in the region of the kidneys was sore, lame and hurt me very much, an aching pain being ever present. The kidney secretions were dark in color and on standing deposited much sediment. When Doan's Kidney Pills were advertised I sent my son for a box. I was a little afraid I would not be able to use them for I cannot take some kinds of medicine. I found, however, that they were mild in their operations and did not produce any bad effects. Before taking them very long the kidney secretions became healthy in color, all deposit was removed and the soreness and pain were replaced by a perfectly comfortable feeling."

Plan on Foot to Adopt General System of Fumigation of Railroad Coaches, Street Cars, Theatres etc.

Within a few weeks a regular system of disinfecting railroad coaches, street cars, theatres, boarding houses, hotels and all public places where people congregate, may be introduced.

Representatives of two different companies are in Duluth at the present time advocating the use of the formaldehyde system of fumigation, and they are being given the hearty co-operation of the city administration in the matter.

Already the two range roads have practically agreed to commence the plan of fumigating their coaches at stated intervals. The coaches are largely used by woodsmen and railroad laborers going to and from the camps scattered on the ranges.—Duluth Herald.

Speaking of the Duluth Fashions which are to play Brainerd next Sunday and Monday in this city at Athletic park the Duluth News-Tribune says:

"In the contest for the championship of the city, the Duluth Fashions defeated the Big Duluth team at the Athletic park yesterday afternoon, by a score of 11 to 3. During the greater part of the game the latter aggregation put up a strong bid for honors, but in the seventh their stock became bearish, followed by a disastrous slump in the eighth.

"McDougal, the young man from West Duluth, who at one time did some nice work for the White Sox juniors, pitched for the Big Duluth bunch. He was strong in the striking out act, and began to dole out his good ones with discriminate judgment. But in the fatal eighth the batters pounded his offerings all over the field. Three doubles and a single were secured off his delivery in quick succession. This would not have been so bad if McDougal's team-mates did not have a streak of throwing wild while the batting exhibition was on.

"Al. Cummings, yachtman, football player, and otherwise an all-round athlete, who occupied the box for the Fashions, pitched a steady game. He gave hits sparingly, the eighth inning being the only period in which the batters succeeded in bunting them. On account of his occasional wildness he got into a couple of tight places, but his partners accorded him gilt-edged support at the proper time.

"The game was an excellent exhibition and compared favorably with many of the league contests seen here this season. There was some clever fielding done. Catcher Potter got under a difficult foul fly near the wire netting which brought to mind some of the accomplishments of Daniel O'Leary. And Honnold made a running catch in the second inning that was of the sensational type."

A NEW PRINCIPLE IN MEDICAL SCIENCE.

For years it has been the practice of medical men to treat patients suffering from piles by local, external applications. These treatments give but temporary relief, but have never effected a positive cure.

After months of research and study, accompanied by actual experience with various patients, Dr. C. A. Perrin arrived at a positive conclusion as to the exact action of the various parts of the bowel system, under different conditions, and when subjected to various prescriptions.

He finally prepared that wonderful internal remedy known as Dr. PERRIN'S PILE SPECIFIC, which is put up in bottles, retailing at all reliable drug stores for $1.00 each. This internal remedy has been on the market for the past ten years, and in all of that time there has been but three cases where a positive cure has not been effected.

Dr. Perrin's Pile Specific is sold under a positive guarantee by the druggist making the sale, to refund the full purchase price, providing the remedy fails to cure. This is the absolute proof of its merit. Any man or woman who suffers from blind, bleeding, itching or internal piles can try this internal remedy with the absolute certainty that it will cost nothing unless it cures. Here is what one sufferer says of this wonderful remedy:

Dr. C. A. Perrin, Helena, Mont.—I wish to thank you for the cure your wonderful medicine has done for me. I had the piles some five years, and under the advice of a doctor had them removed by the knife and felt free for awhile, but they returned and I at once got a bottle of your Perrin's Pile Specific and one bottle has entirely cured me, and I am as good as I ever was. Yours truly, JACK SULLIVAN, Helena, Mont.

THE CHINESE BABY.

Elaborate Ceremonies That Take Place After Its Birth.

On the evening of the first day after the baby has arrived the paterfamilias, according to the Chinese custom, prostrates himself before a joss and, touching his head to the floor, voices thanks to the gods and to the honorable ancestors for the small son who was sent perfect of body and full of health. On the evening of the second day the ceremony is repeated, and on the third day the voice of the wife joins that of the husband in thanksgiving. Also on the third day a limited number of relatives and friends are called in to witness the first head shave.

The rooms of the home are decorated for this occasion with green branches of either fir, cedar or spruce, to insure longevity, or good luck, to the house. Other ornaments in honor of the baby are long silk threads, bearing little circles, squares and hearts of gold and scarlet paper. These are festooned from the walls and are hung from the ceiling. A few feet away the threads are invisible and the gay scraps of paper appear to be floating in the air. For the head shaving the guests are seated in a semicircle before the joss.

The mother is carried to a seat of honor to the right of the joss, and the baby, swathed in yards of scarlet and purple silk, is brought in on an elaborate pillow. The eldest child or nearest relative carries a green branch, crossed with threads of scarlet paper, and waves it slowly over the head of the baby. This wards off evil influences and assures good health. After a quiet ceremony by the father before the joss the tiny forehead of the baby is shaved by the mother and a christening similar to that of the Christian religion—except that the prayer is made to the ancestors and the water used to sprinkle the baby is perfumed with sandalwood—is a part of the ceremony.

The name by which the child is afterward known is also bestowed by the mother. After the shaving of the head a cap of scarlet silk, with decorations of gold and jewels and with a tiny round hole in the top, is placed upon the baby's head, and the christening is completed. In every Chinese family, however poor, at least one banquet is given in honor of the birth of a boy. The banquet viands may be only rice and a bit of salt fish, and there may be only a half dozen or so present. Nevertheless the feast is given, for it is baby's right, and the rights of babies are respected by oriental parents.—Leslie's Weekly.

PITH AND POINT.

As you become older, accustom yourself to neglect.

In promises for the future your friends are all good to you.

Listen sister: if you marry money or a title, that is all you ought to expect to get out of it.

When a man is sick and thinks he is going to die he is so badly scared that he is not cross.

If you want to please the hostess don't accept all the invitations extended by the host and the children.

If a husband doesn't like to have his wife save the old love letters he wrote her let him write her new ones.

A man has many advantages over a woman. A man can stop on the street and watch other men work and make suggestions, but a woman can't do it without being talked about.—Atchison Globe.

The Senator's Italian.

A prominent senator, who claims to be rather more cultivated than some of his colleagues, prides himself on his knowledge of Italian. During a recent visit to New York he patronized a street bootblackening stand and as he got into the seat directed the bootblack in his best Italian to make haste, as he was trying to catch a train.

The bootblack stared at the senator for a moment in apparent perplexity, then answered briefly:

"Me no speak English."

A newsboy standing on the corner had witnessed the incident with interest.

"He ain't no Frenchman," he observed confidentially as the senator got down from the stand. "He's a bloomin' dago. Talk Italian."—Harper's Weekly

Long Winded.

There have been many terms of reproach and ridicule applied to interminable and wearisome talkers, but here are two that seem to be particularly apt:

One is the comment of a politician on a Washington orator. "He has a good train of thought, but it lacks terminal facilities."

The other comes from the village humorist, who said of the village orator, "He's the only feller I ever knew who could set his face talkin' an' then go off an' leave it."

Japanese Pottery.

Everybody who knows anything at all about Japanese pottery knows that there is such a thing as Satsuma ware. Beyond the fact that it is yellowish in tone and always cracked knowledge in most cases does not go, however. The name of the pottery is taken from the clay which comes from the province of Satsuma and is the only clay in Japan, possibly in the world, which will stand the number of firings necessary in the elaborate decorations of which it is the subject.

The Brand.

The old gentleman had just stepped into the crowded car and had accidentally trodden on Algy Fitzgerald's foot. "Confound you, you careless old buff," cried Algy. "You've crushed my foot to a jelly!" "Ah," said the old man calmly—"calf's foot jelly, I suppose!"

AMERICAN ATHLETES VICTORS.

Defeat the Foreigners in Olympian Games at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Sept. 2.—American athletes held the center of the stage at the fourth day of the Louisiana Purchase exposition revival of the Olympic games and they created one world's record and three Olympic records.

One of the greatest races of the 1904 Olympiad was the 800-meter (874.89 yards) run. Entered in the race were representatives of the United States, Germany, Canada and New Zealand, but the first four places were claimed by men running under the colors of Chicago, New York and Milwaukee athletic clubs.

James D. Lightbody of Chicago lowered the Olympic record by 5.25 seconds. The German representative and E. W. Breitkreutz of Milwaukee collapsed at the finish.

M. J. Sheridan threw the discus 132 feet flat, breaking his own world's record of 127 feet, 9 1/2 inches.

E. Desmarieux of Montreal, Can., beat Flanagan of New York by a foot in the 56 pound hammer throw, recording 24 feet 4 inches, 2 feet, 2 1/2 inches below Flanagan's Olympic record.

In the 56-pound handicap event, Desmarieux threw 34 feet, 10 1/2 inches. Michael Prinstein of New York added 6 1/2 inches to the Olympic running broad jump record established by A. C. Krenzlien of Pennsylvania at the Paris games in 1900.

H. L. Hillman of New York won the 200-meter hurdle race in the record time of 24 1/2 seconds.

Milwaukee's team won the tug of war, St. Louis teams being second and third and New York fourth.

Fred Winton of New York won four out of five events in the dumb-bell contest.

Wins Rifle Competition.

Sea Girt, N. J., Sept. 2.—The first competition of the interstate shooting tournament of the National Rifle Association of America and the New Jersey State Rifle association was won by First Lieutenant William Cookson of the national guard, District of Columbia, with a total of 95 out of a possible 100.

Farmer Fatally Stabbed.

Salem, S. D., Sept. 2.—Henry Kotz, a farmer living fourteen miles southeast of here, was stabbed in the neck and arm by Fred High. High "took to the woods" and was run down and wounded after a chase of seven miles. High is now in custody under $2,000 on the charge of attempt to kill. Kotz may die.

Bryan Appeals to Missourians.

Springfield, Mo., Sept. 2.—William J. Bryan was the principal speaker at a Democratic rally which finished the exercises incident to the opening of the Democratic campaign in Missouri. Mr. Bryan made an urgent plea to Democrats that they loyally support national, state and congressional tickets.

Fire in the chair factory of P. Derby & Co., in Charlestown, Mass., caused a loss of $100,000.

In spite of a heavy rain, 22,000 people visited the Minnesota state fair at St. Paul Thursday.

Frank Warner of Cannon Falls was seriously, if not fatally, hurt Thursday by being run down by an interurban car in Minneapolis.

AN INDIAN JOKER.

Kickingberg's Poser, Which Dr. Rose Made No Attempt to Answer.

"It is a notorious fact that there are but few humorists among the many thousands of Indians in this country, and I therefore regard it as a distinction to have enjoyed the friendship of a red man who was a wag in every sense of the word," observed a former member of congress from Ohio in conversation with a friend.

"The wag to whom I refer was known as Kickingberg and was a Kiowa. He was a fine, handsome and tall specimen of Indian manhood. He and myself became fast friends and often dined together."

"I recall an incident in which Kickingberg played a part. It was an important conference between Dr. Rose of Philadelphia and a delegation of Kiowas and was held almost within the shadow of Fort Sill. In the course of his remarks Dr. Rose urged the red man to follow in the steps of the industrious white man—to get a piece of land, till it, raise a family and become a citizen of whom the community might be proud. At the conclusion of his remarks Dr. Rose announced that he was willing to be interrogated."

"Kickingberg took the floor. He said, 'Why don't white men do as white men says?' Raising his arm and pointing to Fort Sill he continued, saying, 'Lots white men there got no squaws, no farm—they carry guns!'"

"Dr. Rose was dumfounded. It would have been certain death to have truthfully explained to the Indians the reason for the station of the troops at Fort Sill. And so Dr. Rose made no attempt to answer the question, which had a demoralizing effect upon the conference."

"A day or two later I met Kickingberg. I inquired why he made such a speech and told him he had done wrong. He nearly went into convulsions with laughter and regarded his act as a great joke. Recovering himself he said:

"I know doctor could not answer question. I know, same as doctor, government keeps 2,000 soldiers at fort to shoot us down if we don't behave." —Washington Star.

QUEER THINGS TO PAINT.

Peculiar Subjects For Pictures Selected by Students.

A noted artist was addressing his class.

"Young men," he said, "when you begin to paint don't choose peculiar and uncanny subjects for your pictures. Some of you, though, despite me, will choose such subjects. That has been the case with all my classes."

"A country lad painted under me a picture of Nebuchadnezzar eating grass. The picture was intended to be horrible and sad. In a gaunt landscape the king, nearly naked, crouched on his hands and knees. He was eating greedily of a big bunch of grass that he held in his left hand. His aspect was bestial and insane. The picture wasn't badly done, but whoever looked at it laughed."

"Another student of mine once painted a picture that he called 'The Deliverance of Jonah.' On a sea beach Jonah knelt, his hands clasped and his face turned skyward in grateful prayer. The whale was disappearing. Its vast bulk was sinking into the sea."

"A young Australian painted 'The Pound of Flesh.' In this composition the judge and the multitude of spectators looked on while Portia held a long knife against the bared ribs of Shylock. Shylock was howling with wide open mouth and arms stretched out in an appeal for mercy, and the blood was beginning to flow from his side. When this picture's disagreement with Shakespeare's text was pointed out to the young Australian he said, smiling indifferently, that an error of that sort did not interfere with the picture's value as a work of art."

"Among the queer subjects that my pupils have chosen to paint there have been lepers, snakes, tombstones, rats, tailors, worms, skeletons and surgical operations."—Pittsburg Press.

The Judge Silenced.

In the famous trial of the dean of St. Asaph, Mr. Erskine, the great English lawyer, put a question to the jury relative to the meaning of their verdict. Mr. Justice Buller objected to its propriety. The counsel reiterated his question and demanded an answer. The judge again interposed his authority in these emphatic words:

"Sit down, Mr. Erskine. Know your duty or I shall be obliged to make you know it."

Mr. Erskine, with equal warmth, replied: "I know my duty as well as your lordship knows your duty. I stand here as the advocate of a fellow citizen, and I will not sit down."

The judge was silent, and the advocate persisted in his questions.

The Intelligent Mule.

"Valuable mule that," said the Billville citizen to the prospective purchaser. "Saved my life once."

"Indeed! How was that?" "Saw a flash of lightning making straight for me an' kicked it all to pieces 'fore it could land!"—Atlanta Constitution.

A NEW PRINCIPLE IN MEDICAL SCIENCE.

For years it has been the practice of medical men to treat patients suffering from piles by local, external applications. These treatments give but temporary relief, but have never effected a positive cure.

After months of research and study, accompanied by actual experience with various patients, Dr. C. A. Perrin arrived at a positive conclusion as to the exact action of the various parts of the bowel system, under different conditions, and when subjected to various prescriptions.

He finally prepared that wonderful internal remedy known as Dr. PERRIN'S PILE SPECIFIC, which is put up in bottles, retailing at all reliable drug stores for $1.00 each. This internal remedy has been on the market for the past ten years, and in all of that time there has been but three cases where a positive cure has not been effected.

Dr. Perrin's Pile Specific is sold under a positive guarantee by the druggist making the sale, to refund the full purchase price, providing the remedy fails to cure. This is the absolute proof of its merit. Any man or woman who suffers from blind, bleeding, itching or internal piles can try this internal remedy with the absolute certainty that it will cost nothing unless it cures. Here is what one sufferer says of this wonderful remedy:

Dr. C. A. Perrin, Helena, Mont.—I wish to thank you for the cure your wonderful medicine has done for me. I had the piles some five years, and under the advice of a doctor had them removed by the knife and felt free for awhile, but they returned and I at once got a bottle of your Perrin's Pile Specific and one bottle has entirely cured me, and I am as good as I ever was.

Yours truly,

"He ain't no Frenchman," he observed confidentially as the senator got down from the stand. "He's a bloomin' dago. Talk Italian."—Harper's Weekly

Long Winded.

There have been many terms of reproach and ridicule applied to interminable and wearisome talkers, but here are two that seem to be particularly apt:

One is the comment of a politician on a Washington orator. "He has a good train of thought, but it lacks terminal facilities."

The other comes from the village humorist, who said of the village orator, "He's the only feller I ever knew who could set his face talkin' an' then go off an' leave it."

Japanese Pottery.

Everybody who knows anything at all about Japanese pottery knows that there is such a thing as Satsuma ware. Beyond the fact that it is yellowish in tone and always crackled knowledge in most cases does not go, however. The name of the pottery is taken from the clay which comes from the province of Satsuma and is the only clay in Japan, possibly in the world, which will stand the number of firings necessary in the elaborate decorations of which it is the subject.

The Brand.

The old gentleman had just stepped into the crowded car and had accidentally trodden on Algy Fitzgerald's foot. "Confound you, you careless old buffaw!" cried Algy. "You've crushed my foot to a jelly!" "Ah," said the old man calmly—"calf's foot jelly, I suppose."

AMERICAN ATHLETES VICTORS.

Defeat the Foreigners in Olympian Games at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Sept. 2.—American athletes held the center of the stage at the fourth day of the Louisiana Purchase exposition revival of the Olympic games and they created one world's record and three Olympic records.

One of the greatest races of the 1904 Olympiad was the 800-meter (874.89 yards) run. Entered in the race were representatives of the United States, Germany, Canada and New Zealand, but the first four places were claimed by men running under the colors of Chicago, New York and Milwaukee athletic clubs.

James D. Lightbody of Chicago lowered the Olympic record by 5.25 seconds. The German representative and E. W. Breitkreutz of Milwaukee collapsed at the finish.

M. J. Sheridan threw the discus 132 feet flat, breaking his own world's record of 127 feet, 9½ inches.

E. Desmarteau of Montreal, Can., beat Flanagan of New York by a foot in the 56 pound hammer throw, recording 34 feet, 4 inches, 2 feet, 2½ inches below Flanagan's Olympic record.

In the 56-pound handicap event, Desmarteau threw 34 feet, 10½ inches. Michael Prinstein of New York added 6½ inches to the Olympic running broad jump record established by A. C. Kreanzlen of Pennsylvania at the Paris games in 1900.

H. L. Hillman of New York won the 200-meter hurdle race in the record time of 24½ seconds.

Milwaukee's team won the tug of war. St. Louis teams being second and third and New York fourth.

Fred Winton of New York won four out of five events in the dumb-bell contest.

Wins Rifle Competition.

Sea Girt, N. J., Sept. 2.—The first competition of the interstate shooting tournament of the National Rifle Association of America and the New Jersey State Rifle association was won by First Lieutenant William Cookson of the national guard, District of Columbia, with a total of 95 out of a possible 100.

Farmer Fatally Stabbed.

Salem, S. D., Sept. 2.—Henry Kotz, a farmer living fourteen miles southeast of here, was stabbed in the neck and arm by Fred High. High "took to the woods" and was run down and wounded after a chase of seven miles. High is now in custody under $2,000 on the charge of attempt to kill. Kotz may die.

Bryan Appeals to Missourians.

Springfield, Mo., Sept. 2.—William J. Bryan was the principal speaker at a Democratic rally which finished the exercises incident to the opening of the Democratic campaign in Missouri. Mr. Bryan made an urgent plea to Democrats that they loyally support national, state and congressional tickets.

AN INDIAN JOKER.

Kicklingberg's Power, Which Dr. Rose Made No Attempt to Answer.

"It is a notorious fact that there are but few humorists among the many thousands of Indians in this country, and I therefore regard it as a distinction to have enjoyed the friendship of a red man who was a wag in every sense of the word," observed a former member of congress from Ohio in conversation with a friend.

"The wag to whom I refer was known as Kicklingberg and was a Kiowa. He was a fine, handsome and tall specimen of Indian manhood. He and myself became fast friends and often dined together.

"I recall an incident in which Kicklingberg played a part. It was an important conference between Dr. Rose of Philadelphia and a delegation of Kiowas and was held almost within the shadow of Fort Sill. In the course of his remarks Dr. Rose urged the red man to follow in the steps of the industrious white man—to get a piece of land, till it, raise a family and become a citizen of whom the community might be proud. At the conclusion of his remarks Dr. Rose announced that he was willing to be interrogated.

"Kicklingberg took the floor. He said, 'Why don't white men do as white man says?' Raising his arm and pointing to Fort Sill he continued, saying, 'Lots white men there got no squaws, no farm—they carry guns!'

"Dr. Rose was dumfounded. It would have been certain death to have truthfully explained to the Indians the reason for the station of the troops at Fort Sill. And so Dr. Rose made no attempt to answer the question, which had a demoralizing effect upon the conference.

"A day or two later I met Kicklingberg. I inquired why he made such a speech and told him he had done wrong. He nearly went into convulsions with laughter and regarded his act as a great joke. Recovering himself he said:

"I know doctor could not answer question. I know, same as doctor, government keeps 2,000 soldiers at fort to shoot us down if we don't behave."—Washington Star.

QUEER THINGS TO PAINT.

Peculiar Subjects For Pictures Selected by Students.

A noted artist was addressing his class.

"Young men," he said, "when you begin to paint don't choose peculiar and uncanny subjects for your pictures. Some of you, though, despite me, will choose such subjects. That has been the case with all my classes.

"A country lad painted under me a picture of Nebuchadnezzar eating grass. The picture was intended to be horrible and sad. In a gaunt landscape the king, nearly naked, crouched on his hands and knees. He was eating greedily of a big bunch of grass that he held in his left hand. His aspect was bestial and insane. The picture wasn't badly done, but whoever looked at it laughed.

"Another student of mine once painted a picture that he called 'The Deliverance of Jonah.' On a sea beach Jonah knelt, his hands clasped and his face turned skyward in grateful prayer. The whale was disappearing. Its vast bulk was sinking into the sea. 'A young Australian painted 'The Pound of Flesh.' In this composition the judge and the multitude of spectators looked on while Portia held a long knife against the bared ribs of Shylock. Shylock was howling with wide open mouth and arms stretched out in an appeal for mercy, and the blood was beginning to flow from his side. When this picture's disagreement with Shakespeare's text was pointed out to the young Australian he said, smiling indifferently, that an error of that sort did not interfere with the picture's value as a work of art.

"Among the queer subjects that my pupils have chosen to paint there have been lepers, snakes, tombstones, rats, tailors, worms, skeletons and surgical operations."—Pittsburg Press.

The Judge Silenced.

In the famous trial of the dean of St. Asaph, Mr. Erskine, the great English lawyer, put a question to the jury relative to the meaning of their verdict. Mr. Justice Buller objected to its propriety. The counsel reiterated his question and demanded an answer. The judge again interposed his authority in these emphatic words:

"Sit down, Mr. Erskine. Know your duty or I shall be obliged to make you know it."

Mr. Erskine, with equal warmth, replied: "I know my duty as well as your lordship knows your duty. I stand here as the advocate of a fellow citizen, and I will not sit down."

The judge was silent, and the advocate persisted in his questions.

A NEW PRINCIPLE IN MEDICAL SCIENCE.

For years it has been the practice of medical men to treat patients suffering from piles by local, external applications. These treatments give but temporary relief, but have never effected a positive cure.

After months of research and study, accompanied by actual experience with various patients, Dr. C. A. Perrin arrived at a positive conclusion as to the exact action of the various parts of the bowel system, under different conditions, and when subjected to various prescriptions.

He finally prepared that wonderful internal remedy known as DR. PERRIN'S PILE SPECIFIC, which is put up in bottles, retailing at all reliable drug stores for $1.00 each. This internal remedy has been on the market for the past ten years, and in all of that time there has been but three cases where a positive cure has not been effected.

Dr. Perrin's Pile Specific is sold under a positive guarantee by the druggist making the sale, to refund the full purchase price, providing the remedy fails to cure. This is the absolute proof of its merit. Any man or woman who suffers from blind, bleeding, itching or internal piles can try this internal remedy with the absolute certainty that it will cost nothing unless it cures. Here is what one sufferer says of this wonderful remedy:

Dr. C. A. Perrin, Helena, Mont.—I wish to thank you for the cure your wonderful medicine has done for me. I had the piles some five years, and under the advice of a doctor had them removed by the knife and felt free for awhile, but they returned and I at once got a bottle of your Perrin's Pile Specific and one bottle has entirely cured me, and I am as good as I ever was.

Yours truly,
JACK SULLIVAN, Chicago.
Better get a bottle of your druggist today and get relief from present and future suffering.

THE CHINESE BABY.

Elaborate Ceremonies That Take Place After Its Birth.

On the evening of the first day after the baby has arrived the paterfamilias, according to the Chinese custom, prostrates himself before a joss and, touching his head to the floor, voices thanks to the gods and to the honorable ancestors for the small son who was sent perfect of body and full of health. On the evening of the second day the ceremony is repeated, and on the third day the voice of the wife joins that of the husband in thanksgiving. Also on the third day a limited number of relatives and friends are called in to witness the first head shave.

The rooms of the home are decorated for this occasion with green branches of either fir, cedar or spruce, to insure fueng-suey, or good luck, to the house. Other ornamentations in honor of the baby are long silk threads, bearing little circles, squares and hearts of gold and scarlet paper. These are festooned from the walls and are hung from the ceiling. A few feet away the threads are invisible and the gay scraps of paper appear to be floating in the air. For the head shaving the guests are seated in a semicircle before the joss.

The mother is carried to a seat of honor to the right of the joss, and the baby, swathed in yards of scarlet and purple silk, is brought in on an elaborate pillow. The eldest child or nearest relative carries a green branch, crossed with threads of scarlet paper, and waves it slowly over the head of the baby. This wards off evil influences and insures good health. After a quaint ceremony by the father before the joss the tiny forehead of the baby is shaved by the mother and a christening similar to that of the Christian religion—except that the prayer is made to the ancestors and the water used to sprinkle the baby is perfumed with sandalwood—is a part of the ceremony.

The name by which the child is afterward known is also bestowed by the mother. After the shaving of the head a cap of scarlet silk, with decorations of gold and jewels and with a tiny round hole in the top, is placed upon the baby's head, and the christening is completed. In every Chinese family, however poor, at least one banquet is given in honor of the birth of a boy. The banquet viands may be only rice and a bit of salt fish, and there may be only a half dozen or so present. Nevertheless the feast is given, for it is the baby's right, and the rights of babies are respected by oriental parents.—Leslie's Weekly.

PITH AND POINT.

As you become older, accustom yourself to neglect.

In promises for the future your friends are all good to you.

Listen sister; if you marry money or a title, that is all you ought to expect to get out of it.

When a man is sick and thinks he is going to die he is so badly scared that he is not cross.

If you want to please the hostess don't accept all the invitations extended by the host and the children.

If a husband doesn't like to have his wife save the old love letters he wrote her let him write her new ones.

A man has many advantages over a woman. A man can stop on the street and watch other men work and make suggestions, but a woman can't do it without being talked about.—Aitchison Globe.

The Senator's Italian.

A prominent senator, who claims to be rather more cultivated than some of his colleagues, prides himself on his knowledge of Italian. During a recent visit to New York he patronized a street bootblack stand and as he got into the seat directed the bootblack in his best Italian to make haste, as he was trying to catch a train.

The bootblack stared at the senator for a moment in apparent perplexity, then answered briefly:

"Me no speak English."

A newsboy standing on the corner had witnessed the incident with interest.

"He ain't no Frenchman," he observed confidentially as the senator got down from the stand. "He's a bloomin' dago. Talk Italian!"—Harper's Weekly

Long Winded.

There have been many terms of reproach and ridicule applied to interminable and wearisome talkers, but here are two that seem to be particularly apt:

One is the comment of a politician on a Washington orator, "He has a good train of thought, but it lacks terminal facilities."

The other comes from the village humorist, who said of the village orator, "He's the only feller I ever knew who could set his face talkin' an' then go off an' leave it."

Beyond the fact that it is yellowish in tone and always crackled knowledge in most cases does not go, however. The name of the pottery is taken from the clay which comes from the province of Satsuma and is the only clay in Japan, possibly in the world, which will stand the number of firings necessary in the elaborate decorations of which it is the subject.

AMERICAN ATHLETES VICTORS.

Defeat the Foreigners in Olympian Games at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Sept. 2.—American athletes held the center of the stage at the fourth day of the Louisiana Purchase exposition revival of the Olympic games and they created one world's record and three Olympic records.

One of the greatest races of the 1904 Olympiad was the 800-meter (874.82 yards) run. Entered in the race were representatives of the United States, Germany, Canada and New Zealand, but the first four places were claimed by men running under the colors of Chicago, New York and Milwaukee athletic clubs.

James D. Lightbody of Chicago lowered the Olympic record by 5.25 seconds. The German representative and E. W. Breitkreutz of Milwaukee collapsed at the finish.

M. J. Sheridan threw the discus 132 feet flat, breaking his own world's record of 127 feet, 9 1/2 inches.

E. Desmarteau of Montreal, Can., beat Flanagan of New York by a foot in the 56 pound hammer throw, recording 34 feet, 4 inches, 2 feet, 2 1/2 inches below Flanagan's Olympic record.

In the 56-pound handicap event, Desmarteau threw 34 feet, 10 1/2 inches. Michael Prinstein of New York added 6 1/2 inches to the Olympic running broad jump record established by A. C. Kreanzlien of Pennsylvania at the Paris games in 1900.

H. L. Hillman of New York won the 200-meter hurdle race in the record time of 24 3/4 seconds.

Milwaukee's team won the tug of war, St. Louis teams being second and third and New York fourth.

Fred Winton of New York won four out of five events in the dumb-bell contest.

Salem, S. D., Sept. 2.—Henry Kotz, a farmer living fourteen miles southeast of here, was stabbed in the neck and arm by Fred High. High "took to the woods" and was run down and wounded after a chase of seven miles. High is now in custody under $2,000 on the charge of attempt to kill. Kotz may die.

Bryan Appeals to Missourians.

AN INDIAN JOKER.

Kicklingberg's Poser, Which Dr. Rose Made No Attempt to Answer.

"It is a notorious fact that there are but few humorists among the many thousands of Indians in this country, and I therefore regard it as a distinction to have enjoyed the friendship of a red man who was a wag in every sense of the word," observed a former member of congress from Ohio in conversation with a friend.

"The wag to whom I refer was known as Kicklingberg and was a Kiowa. He was a fine, handsome and tall specimen of Indian manhood. He and myself became fast friends and often dined together."

"I recall an incident in which Kicklingberg played a part. It was an important conference between Dr. Rose of Philadelphia and a delegation of Kiowas and was held almost within the shadow of Fort Sill. In the course of his remarks Dr. Rose urged the red man to follow in the steps of the industrious white man—to get a piece of land, till it, raise a family and become a citizen of whom the community might be proud. At the conclusion of his remarks Dr. Rose announced that he was willing to be interrogated."

"Kicklingberg took the floor. He said, 'Why don't white men do as white man says? Raising his arm and pointing to Fort Sill he continued, saying, 'Lots white men there got no squaws, no farm—they carry guns!'"

"Dr. Rose was dumfounded. It would have been certain death to have truthfully explained to the Indians the reason for the station of the troops at Fort Sill. And so Dr. Rose made no attempt to answer the question, which had a demoralizing effect upon the conference."

"A day or two later I met Kicklingberg. I inquired why he made such a speech and told him he had done wrong. He nearly went into convulsions with laughter and regarded his act as a great joke. Recovering himself he said:

"I know doctor could not answer question. I know, same as doctor, government keeps 2,000 soldiers at fort to shoot us down if we don't behave."—Washington Star.

QUEER THINGS TO PAINT.

Peculiar Subjects For Pictures Selected by Students.

A noted artist was addressing his class.

"Young men," he said, "when you begin to paint don't choose peculiar and uncanny subjects for your pictures. Some of you, though, despite me, will choose such subjects. That has been the case with all my classes."

"A country lad painted under me a picture of Nebuchadnezzar eating grass. The picture was intended to be horrible and sad. In a gaunt landscape the king, nearly naked, crouched on his hands and knees. He was eating greedily of a big bunch of grass that he held in his left hand. His aspect was bestial and insane. The picture wasn't badly done, but whoever looked at it laughed."

"Another student of mine once painted a picture that he called 'The Deliverance of Jonah.' On a sea beach Jonah knelt, his hands clasped and his face turned skyward in grateful prayer. The whale was disappearing. Its vast bulk was sinking into the sea."

"A young Australian painted 'The Pound of Flesh.' In this composition the judge and the multitude of spectators looked on while Portia held a long knife against the bared ribs of Shylock. Shylock was howling with wide open mouth and arms stretched out in an appeal for mercy, and the blood was beginning to flow from his side. When this picture's disagreement with Shakespeare's text was pointed out to the young Australian he said, smiling indifferently, that an error of that sort did not interfere with the picture's value as a work of art."

"Among the queer subjects that my pupils have chosen to paint there have been lepers, snakes, tombstones, rats, tailors, worms, skeletons and surgical operations."—Pittsburg Press.

The Judge Silenced.

In the famous trial of the dean of St. Asaph, Mr. Erskine, the great English lawyer, put a question to the jury relative to the meaning of their verdict. Mr. Justice Buller objected to its propriety. The counsel reiterated his question and demanded an answer. The judge again interposed his authority in these emphatic words:

"Sit down, Mr. Erskine. Know your duty or I shall be obliged to make you know it."

Mr. Erskine, with equal warmth, replied: "I know my duty as well as your lordship knows your duty. I stand here as the advocate of a fellow citizen, and I will not sit down."

The judge was silent, and the advocate persisted in his questions.

The Intelligent Mule.

"Valuable mule that," said the Billville citizen to the prospective purchaser. "Saved my life once."

"Indeed! How was that?"

"Saw a flash of lightning making straight for me an' kicked it all to pieces 'fore it could land!"—Atlanta Constitution.
